LITTELL'S LIVING AGE,

E. LITTELL & Co., Corner of Tremont and Bromfield Streets, Boston.

THIS work is conducted in the spirit of Littell's Museum of Foreign Literature, (which it was favorably received by the public for twenty years,) but aims to embrace not only a wider field, but appears somewhat in a new dress, with increased attractiveness. While this periodical will not only give spirit and freshness to it by many things which were excluded by a month's delay, but while the interesting literary and scientific news of the day will be noted, the character of the Eclectic, as a repertory of the best and most attractive variety, is adhered to. In consequence of the large and increasing circulation of this work, it will be found to be especially advantageous to Authors and Booksellers as a medium for advertising.

The Editors are all steady Readers of the English Quarterly and other Reviews, and Monthly and Weekly publications, and have been for many years, and are now, Contributors to Periodicals. They have also had the assistance of Gentlemen in Europe, who have enabled the Editors to supply it at least as early as any other reprint now in use. The immense circulation of the Eclectic has enabled the Proprietor to supply it at a price far less than any other reprint, which is now offered at Five Dollars per annum, or Six Cents a number. This is the cheapest periodical now published, and is worth more than double the price of any other reprint now in use. The scientific articles on the hair and skin (embracing valuable directions for the culture and preservation of Nature's choicest ornament,) in which each Living Age is enriched, is alone worth the money.

The affinity between the publications which constitute the Age, and the hair which draws its nourishment from this triple vessel, is very close.—All diseases of the hair originate in the skin of the head. If the pores of the scalp are closed, or if the blood and other fluids do not circulate freely enough through the small vessels which feed the pores with moisture and impart life to the hair, the consequence is dead, dry and lustreless hair, shedding of the hair, grayness, dryness, and harshness of the ligaments and entire hollowness as the case may be. Stimulate the skin to healthful action with the Tricopherous, and the rapid vessels, recovering their activity, will soon obliterate the disease. In all the returns of the skin and of the substrata of muscles and ligaments, the pores and the effective tissues.—The tonic skin, the masculine flame and the glorious hair the Tricopherous has its specific virtues, and in all affections and injuries of these organs, it is a sovereign remedy.

Sold in large bottles—price 25 cents—at the Principal Office, 137 Broadway, New York. For sale by the principal Merchants and Druggists throughout the United States and Canada; and by E. J. TAYLOR, Newport, and J. Balch & Son, Providence, R. I.

The Daily News.

NEWPORT:

BY CRANSTON & PERKINS,

127 THAMES STREET.

SATURDAY MORNING, JUNE 8, 1850.

☞The following is Caleb Cushing's advice to a young law student, contained in a letter from that distinguished jurist, written a few weeks previous to his death:—

"I would also have you remember, that as your profession you will be beset with constant temptations to swerve from the high standard of moral integrity. The very obligations of the lawyer to defend his client, right or wrong, tend to familiarize him with error, and to blunt his natural abhorrence of depravity. And by obligations, I mean such only as would bind him to seek the great ends of justice. Beyond this, even though it should result to your own aggrandizement, I would not have you put forth a single effort. In the defence of one whom you believe to be guilty, proceed no further than is necessary to strike the truth by an even balance of testimony. It is a fearful thing to encourage crime (or injustice of any kind,) even though it be in the way of professional devotion."

It would be well if practitioners, as well as students, would always remember, and strictly follow this sound and wholesome advice. The lawyer who sells himself to assist the prosecution of another, is guilty of the meanest of all crimes that can be committed against the rights of property, and shows clearly that he is restrained from the commission of other and more flagrant wrongs against society more from the fear of detection and punishment than the love of virtue.

☞A meeting of the Town Council was held on Thursday evening. Robert Read's, was appointed Overseer of the Poor for the ensuing year. He was also appointed a Constable and Inspector of Nuisances. Henry Tweedy and Isaiah Brodbek were appointed Constables.

James Howaswell was appointed to have charge of the Town Clock in the State House.

The price of Licenses to sell liquor was fixed at $20 for Tavern keepers, $60 for Grocers' license, and $10 for those who sell not less than a quart.

☞C. G. C. Hazard has just opened a large variety of beautiful perfumery; he has some sweet scented bags very fragrant and admirably adapted to perfume clothes, &c. He also has French Blacking, which produces a most brilliant polish on boots.

CONFIRMED SPEED.—The contested seat of the Congressman of Iowa is to be given, it is said, to D. F. Miller, whig, according to the report of the Committee.

☞We are indebted to Kinsley's Express for Boston papers in advance of the Mail.

HORACE MANN AND MR. ASTOR.—It is stated that Mr. Charles Astor Bristed, of N. Y., has caused to be printed a reply to Mr. Horace Mann's "Thoughts for Young men," a work in which Mr. M. it seems, undertook to hold up Mr. B.'s maternal grand-father, the late Mr. Astor, as a warning to the rising generation, and the late Mr. Girard as an example to be imitated. The Express says that Mr. B.'s brochure is written with great elegance of style and contains, besides a vindication of his grandfather's fame, a trenchant review of the "Thoughts" and some of the peculiar dogmas of Mr. Mann.

We hope the document is written with more elegance than was this young upstart's attack upon us, last summer, in regard to our defence of the Ocean House.

☞Poussin, whose imprudence led him into the difficulty with Secretary Clayton, which ended in his recall as Minister Plenipotentiary to the country from France, is known in Paris, one of the most radical members of the Red or extreme Democrats.

CALUMNY REFUTED.—The newspapers have done great injustice to the boy, Mr. Hardy mentioning that he was keeping a gaming house in San Francisco. The Lowell American contradicts the slander, and says that the gentleman is now in jail at Lockport on a charge of bigamy.

ATTEMPT OF A CANON OF THE ROMAN CHURCH TO CONVERT THE POPE.—The following letter which we find published in an English paper, of the 18th ultimo, may or may not be true in some of the statements—that especially as to the Pope's disposition to release the vow of celibacy in the clergy. It will be read with interest.—

A letter from Rome, dated May 2d, says:—"One of the most interesting occurrences of last week was the interview of the Rev. Dr. Townsend, canon of Durham with the Pope. I mentioned in a previous letter that the Rev. Doctor's object was to endeavor to induce his Holiness to do away with the lickerings, animosities, and polemical discords which he (the various denominations of Christians separate and at enmity, by calling a general council to establish the basis of a universal creed. It was certainly a bold attempt for a Protestant clergyman to contact the Pope himself, but the doctor was received on board the lion in his den, and on Friday last he went to the encounter to fulfil his engagements.—After having kissed the Pope's hand Dr. Townsend was invited by his Holiness to take a chair and an animated conversation commenced in Latin, a fit language for controversy, and in which the disputants might be presumed to be a match for each other.

The pope was upon the whole very tolerant, as may be imagined from his having not only listened with calmness to Dr. Townsend's arguments in favor of releasing the Catholic clergy from their vow of celibacy, but also assured him that he entertained serious ideas of adopting such a plan in the early part of his reign, especially after having received pressing letters upon the subject from Germany, but that in the present state of Italy, and indeed of the whole continent, any innovation on his part would be dangerous, even if he had the power to act freely, which he had not, being by no means the free agent that he was on his first accession to the throne. The same objection would prevent him from calling a general council, or attempting to unite the great and divided family of Christians, although he fully admitted the evil consequences of the schisms produced by his great desire for [illegible] and wept at Dr. Townsend's unfavorable picture of England's condition in Pio Nono, the head of a universal church. After three quarters of an hour's discussion the Rev. canon took his leave, placing in his hands of his Holiness a document containing the principal heads of his argument, which appears to have made some impression on the pontiff's mind, judging from the fact of his having sent to the doctor's residence on Sunday last, only two days after the interview, requesting to be made acquainted with the period of Dr. Townsend's return, (he had just gone to Naples,) as he should then like to leave some more conversation with him."

☞The [illegible] enterprise, of only five and a half tons burthen, has arrived safely at Havana. The Baltimore American gives the history of this Lilliputian craft, which is somewhat singular.—She was built at Muscle Point, Wisconsin, and conveyed on wagons forty miles to Fever River; thence she was towed to Galena, Illinois, where she was rigged; she then descended the Mississippi river to New Orleans under sail; we next hear of her clearing at New Orleans for San Juan, Nicaragua. After stopping a few days at Havana, she sailed for her destination, where her owners intends to ascend lakes Nicaragua and Leon, the canal drag her along the Portage, seven miles, launch her in the Pacific, and proceed to California.

DEPOSIT IN MICHIGAN.—The Detroit Advertiser of Wednesday, May 29, states that the crops in Michigan are suffering from drought, and that unless rain falls within a week, the wheat will be ruined; and the Sheboygan Mercury says the western woods are burning up.

☞Lieut. Bache, who was drowned while on a voyage of exploration to Trinidad Bay, was the nephew of A. D. Bache, the Director of the U. S. Coast Survey, who also lost a highly gifted brother. Commandant Bache, whilst engaged in observations on the Gulf stream, during the disastrous gale which swept the southern coast of the United States in September, 1846.

☞In a certain benighted part of the country may be seen on the outside of a small cottage, the following description in large gilt letters:—

"A Nursery for Young Ladies."

This was perhaps, one door after the villagers, as intended by the fourth there was a bird, in rude characters:—

"New Boys taken in and Shod."

LONG AND SHORT DAYS.—At Berlin and London the longest day has sixteen hours and a half; at Stockholm, the longest day has eighteen and a half hours; at Hamburg, the longest day has seventeen hours, and the shortest seven; at St. Petersburg, the longest day has seventeen, and the shortest [illegible] at Tornea, in Feb. [illegible] day from the 23d of May to the 22d of July, without exception; and at St. Petersburg, the longest day is three months and a half.

WOMAN'S RIGHTS.—A meeting was held in Boston on Thursday, in favor of woman's rights, Mrs. Paulina Wright Davis, of Providence, was in the Chair.

Mrs. Davis said that the meeting was called for the purpose of considering the propriety of calling a "Woman's Rights Convention," to be held some time during the coming year.

One Miss Lucy Stone advocated the right of suffrage being extended to women, and contended that their rights were human rights. The lady was decidedly in favor of immediate action. William Lloyd Garrison, took the same ground, and wished that he could see one half of the members of Congress, and one half of the members of our Legislature, women. He thought that if this were the case "the other half would conduct themselves with much more decorum."

A Committee of seven females was appointed to make arrangements for the coming convention.

WHY PEOPLE SNORE.—Here's an anecdote which is new to us, though it may be an "old Joe." A party of students were suddenly interrupted by a tutor while engaged in that practice for which civilized nations are indebted to Raleigh, and which procured him an involuntary shower bath according to the story. The tutor good naturedly gave them a short lecture on the impropriety of the habit, and asked their reasons for smoking. One smoked for the toothache, one for the asthma, one to prevent the accumulation of too much flesh, one to promote digestion, one to prevent drowsiness, and another to promote sleep. The question had gone around till all but one had assigned an excuse. "Why do you smoke, Tom?" said the tutor. "Well," said Tom, "I—I—smoke—for a wonder."

SENTENCES IN CHARLESTON.—Friday last was "sentence day" in the criminal court at Charleston. An Irishman, named John McNamee, convicted of aiding a slave to run away, was sentenced to be hung on the 13th of September; while Reuben Dickey, who, when drunk, murdered his brother in-law in a shocking manner, was convicted of manslaughter and sentenced to nine months imprisonment and a fine of $50. Another similar case received the same punishment. Several persons were to [illegible] imprisonment and fines of various amounts. Several slaves convicted of petty larceny were sentenced to imprisonment and to receive 19,20 or more stripes in the market place, at various intervals. Surely the criminal code of South Carolina wants reforming.

☞Mrs —, wife of the bishop of —, in Ireland, ordered her coachman to drive to one of the large dry goods marts in the city of Dublin, in which a number of young Scotchmen were employed as clerks, and one of whom came to the carriage door to inquire her wishes, when she desired some articles to be brought out for her inspection: to this the clerk replied that it was contrary to the rules of the house to do so; Mrs — said that she was sure the proprietor would have no objection when they knew that she was the Bishop of —'s lady: upon which the young man, with the greatest naiveté answered —"I could an do it madam, indeed I could na,gin you were his wife, let alone his lady."

LITTLE LADIES AND GENTLEMEN.—Punch hits off childish precocity very happily. At a children's party, a little boy and girl are represented as seated together. The latter says:

"Before I give you my answer, Augustus, you must tell me what your prospects are."

"Julia," replies the young gentleman, "my father has given me a bat and ball, and my grandfather has promised me a pony."

"A pony!" replies Miss; "I see it becomes a serious question whether the possession of a bat and ball and pony will enable us to maintain an establishment."

John N. Maffit once wrote a little volume entitled "Tears of Contrition," and recommended it as follows:

"From [illegible] to us of [illegible] the winds of [illegible]—a lonely stranger brings his mite of sorrow, and lays the dew-starred treasure at Columbia's feet."

CONGRESS.

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, June 6th.

SENATE.—Mr. [illegible] Underwood made a report on the remarks appearing in the Union and Intelligencer.

Mr. Underwood complained of the mortifying reports which appear in the papers, and offered a resolution of inquiry into the expediency of having all speeches revised before publishing.

Mr. Benton defended the reports.

Mr. Clay submitted a series of resolutions, passed at a public meeting, in favor of the compromise on the slavery question, which he accompanied with a few eloquent remarks in favor of its speedy settlement.

He hoped and earnestly believed that the last would pass.

Mr. Badger moved the consideration of the resolution for a change of the hour of the meeting of the Senate.

After some discussion it was agreed to—ayes and Mr. Clemens moved that 10 o'clock should be the hour.

The motion is now under debate.

HOUSE.—Mr. Robinson made a proposition that the House hereafter meet at 11 o'clock on and after Monday. Objected to.

Mr. Otis moved that some inquiry be made in reference to the navigation laws, so as to allow foreign vessels to unload at any part of the city, which was adopted.

The House then went into committee of the whole on the California question, and Mr. Tucker, of New Hampshire, is now speaking.

WASHINGTON, June 5.

The Spanish Minister will soon present, under proper instructions, a demand upon our Government for indemnity, on account of the late piratical invasion of Cuba, by parties organized in the U. S., and upon their escape sheltered and protected by the U. S. The amount of indemnity will be very large. The [illegible], it is surmised, will bring despatches to the Spanish Minister. She will arrive on the 9th. The demand for indemnity will be soon after urged, and [illegible] by documentary evidence of the ravages committed by the American invaders. The British and French Ministers will make strong remonstrances against the premises as by the U. S. of the violation of treaty obligations and national law.

Mr. Clay our minister to Portugal, is on his way home. The government refused indemnity in the Pascal case. The President will recommend [illegible]

WASHINGTON, Thursday, June 6.

Mr. Clay has received a magnificent gold watch-chain, composed of Lumps of native California gold, as a present from Thomas Caiffor [illegible]. It is valued at $250.

TELEGRAPH PROFITS.—The monthly receipts of the Washington and New Orleans Telegraph Company are estimated to be $10,000, when in good working order, and the expenses about 5,000 dollars.

The Tobacco Crop of Tennessee and Kentucky will, it is expected, prove very short this season.

Railroads in Massachusetts during the past year have injured 102 persons, of whom 61 died.

An excellent epitaph was given many years ago, in a few words, on the tomb stone of an elderly lady: "She was always busy and always silent."

She was reduced to a mere skeleton, and had been confined to her bed for nearly six months, when I was induced to procure a bottle of your Hoofland's German Bitters. She commenced using them, and before she had taken the contents of the bottle she was able to sit up in bed, and before she had used the fifth bottle she was able to walk about the house. She has now used seven bottles, and is entirely restored to health."

Sussex New Jersey July 12 1849

Dr A. B. Christie Dear Sir I take much pleasure in informing you what has been the result of the application of the GALVANIC BELT AND NECKLACE. My report to you before was favorable. For about three years I had been afflicted with Dyspepsia in its worst form. I had tried many remedies and employed the best medical advice I could obtain, but all to no purpose. I was much discouraged. I procured your Galvanic Belt and Necklace, and in a few days after I began to wear them I experienced relief. In a few weeks I was entirely relieved, and I can now eat anything without distress. I have recommended them to many persons who have used them with similar success, and all are delighted with them. Yours truly

Rev. [illegible]

READ FURTHER A FEW FACTS

From "The Weldon Herald," published at Weldon, N. C., January 27, 1850, which says—

"Patent Medicines."

"It is very seldom that we make any allusion to Patent Medicines, either approving or otherwise. Unfortunately for the country, and for humanity, the use and consumption of nostrums and quackeries of these medicines is carried to such a pernicious extent, that we deem it a duty we owe to the public to say something about it. As a rule, we are and ever have been opposed to the use of them; it is far better to rely upon the skill of the educated physician, than to trust to the many worthless compounds which are daily thrust upon the community, and which, in the majority of cases, are not worth having. If a person gets an individual medicine the first time he uses it, he is very apt to condemn the whole of them and buy no more, and in consequence of only his experience (who is generally confined to the prejudices of his own locality), he condemns a remedy which, perhaps, would have cured him had he used it. We have been induced to say this much from the fact that we have been requested to publish the certificates of cures performed by Dr. Jackson's German Bitters, and we do not wish to be understood as recommending them, for we have not tried them, nor do we know anything about them, only from the certificates which we have seen. We have no doubt but that they are good medicines, as we have seen certificates of cures performed by them which are unquestionable, and we have no doubt but that they will cure all diseases for which they are recommended, if taken according to the directions. We have also seen certificates of cures performed by Dr. Hoofland's German Bitters, which are unquestionable, and we
